

VSM workshop for Mixed Model Production

Ever struggle to map/analyze your mixed model value stream?
Learn to do it easily with the eVSM Mix software

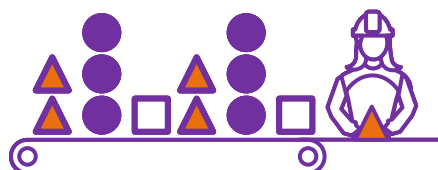

VSM Workshop for Mixed Model Production

Dec 4th & 5th , 2019

Mason, Ohio, USA

“With the new eVSM Mix software, we can build mixed model maps to capture variations in process flow, cycle time and other critical process parameters for the product family. This allows us to use real demand scenarios to [see or quantify] the impact on the entire value stream in terms of resource capacity, lead time and line balance. The Mix capability is the greatest thing to happen to value stream mapping since the original eVSM software.”

Why should you attend ?

Value stream mapping for mixed model production can get very tedious. Keeping track of the variations in demand mix, cycle times, routes, and resources requires a lot of averaging and some guesswork when done manually. eVSM Mix automates this so you can spend more of your time on improving capacity, reducing lead times, and minimizing cost. This workshop will show you how to quickly convert your wall map into an electronic model you can play with to answer all those "what-if" questions.

What will be the outcome ?

- You will be trained by an expert faculty using an interactive case study in an easy way to do mixed model value stream mapping and design using the eVSM Mix software. It will be a step jump over how you have done maps in the past, even with eVSM Standard.
- If your company does not have an eVSM Mix license, you will be given one for 60 days, so you can draw and analyze your first map. You will also need Microsoft Visio and Excel to run the software.
- If your company has already licensed the eVSM Mix software than you can attend at a 50% discount for this course. If you want to consider licensing the software in advance, contact support@evsm.com. eVSM Mix is highly affordable and allows for multiple users at the division or company level.
- You can ask the authors of eVSM Mix questions about your own value stream either in group discussion or privately. These will be answered before or shortly after you head back from training.
